Trustees Take Action on Civic Matters of Pressing Need

Big problems were discussed and definite action taken at Tuesday evening's adjourned meeting of the city trustees.

Trustee William T. Kibbler was in the chair. Only Trustee Helen W. Parkes, who is on a vacation, was absent. City officials present were Attorney Argyll Campbell, Engineer Howard D. Severance, Clerk Saidee Van Brower and Marshal Gus Englund. Also in attendance were members of the Carmel Sanitary Board and a considerable number of property owners.

The first important matter to engage the attention of the board was the proposed general sewer system. Preliminary to the passage of a resolution of intention to proceed with the work an agreement was entered into with the sanitary board by which that body transfers its jurisdiction within the corporate limits of the city to the trustees. Details of the work and territory covered are published elsewhere in these columns. The next step, after allowing time for protest, will be to advertise for construction bids. Asked as to the probable cost, City Engineer Severance stated that it would be about $40 a lot.

The next important matter to be acted upon had to do with the Harrison Memorial Library. Plans and specifications for the building, submitted by Jo Mora, well-known sculptor, and approved by the legatees of the Ella Reid Harrison estate, were accepted.

Over the objection of Trustee J. B. Dennis, the motion of Trustee H. P. Larouette, seconded by Trustee C. O. Goold, "to proceed with the erection of the library" on Block 69, owned by the city, was accepted. The objection of Dennis was based upon the fact that a fund to maintain the library was lacking, and he objected on the further ground that he was opposed to a special tax.

It was shown by Argyll Campbell that a three-mill tax — less than one-third of a cent on the dollar — would provide $2600 a year. This, together with assured donations, would make sufficient to conduct the library.

To correct some misapprehension as to the functions of the library, Mrs. Maude Hogle and Miss Katherine Conway explained that it was not merely a reference library. All sorts of books and magazines will be available, which may be taken out; there will be a children's room, a reading room, a music room; in fine, all those things necessary to modern community libraries.

The city clerk was authorized to execute a five-year lease of the bath house to Walter M. Basham. Satisfactory arrangements have been made as to upkeep, repairs, insurance, etc.

Other matters taken up include fire department affairs, payment of deferred bills, special police, etc.

No action was taken with regard to the enactment of building or zoning ordinances.

The board meets again on Tuesday, June 3.

Mrs. Austin Chinn wishes to announce that she will be at All Saints' every Saturday evening for the rehearsal of sacred music; and that she would heartily welcome anyone who would enjoy coming in and joining with those who are there. The invitation is extended to transient as well as permanent residents in Carmel.

Arts of the Theatre Instruction by One Who Knows Subject

The diversity and unusual artistic ability of the faculty of the Theatre of the Golden Bough is perhaps best shown by the fact that Hedwiga Reicher will be a member of the staff during all of the nine weeks of the summer school term.

Miss Reicher is a member of a family of artists who have been epoch-making in the theatre. Her father, Emanuel Reicher, was one of the founders of the naturalistic school of acting in Europe. Frank Reicher, who was producing director of the New York Theatre Guild and is a distinguished figure on the American stage; Elly Reicher, her sister, who is starring in Holland, and Ernst Reicher, who is the owner and director of one of the most popular moving picture concerns of Germany and Bavaria.

Miss Reicher's own record may be gleaned from the fact that she starred under the direction of Max Reinhardt in Germany and under the management of Henry B. Harris, Lee Shubert and Winthrop Ames on Broadway.

When the International Esperanto Society met in Dresden she played Eohigenia in the Esperanto, forty nations being represented.

She was co-director of the Emanuel Reicher School of Acting in New York and assistant director in several of Reicher's New York productions.

Miss Reicher initiated a movement for the staging of poetry which has been endorsed by such persons as Edwin Markham, Edgar Lee Masters, Amy Lowell, Theodor Dreiser, Otis Skinner and others. Owing to the war the movement was delayed. Miss Reicher has come to California to develop this new form of art expression and has so far produced works by such writers as Edgar Lee Masters, Amy Lowell, Kipling, etc.

Some of this work will be presented in Carmel this season.

Conversation Will be Quite Prolific in "The Dumb Wife"

By Susan Porter

The few who are allowed to drop in for rehearsals at Arts and Crafts are very enthusiastic about the production that will be put on May 30 and 31. "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" is interesting enough to read in the bald print, for its sweeps of broad satire and its subtle touches of fun, but when one hears the lines delivered with the almost unbelievable swift rattle Constance Heron is working for, with the gusto that Calvin Luther has at command, with the carefully contrasted personalities and "tempi" of the rest of the cast, one realizes all over again that plays are to be seen, not read.

Mr. Luther's performance is really something extraordinary. His physique, his countenance, his voice have in them the [illegible] of the sardonic and the elvish which the part demands, and which it must so rarely find, and his by-play is delicious.

The scraps of song and the street cries used are all authentic medieval music, and will add greatly to the charm of the play.

The cast of Herbert Heron's production of "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" is now completed by the following changes or additions:

The Lawyer—Winsor Josselyn.
The Surgeon—Allen Emery.
Alison, the Maid—Marian Taylor.
The Blind Beggar—William Overstreet.
The Watercress Seller—Rhoda Johnson.
The Chimney Sweep—Alex Gibson.

It is interesting to notice that this will be the third beggar part played by Mr. Overstreet, his performance in "The Tents of the Arabs" and his admirable Kasim in "Kismet" being well remembered.

Two Girls a Long Way From Home

Two New Yorkers were in Carmel last week-end. Nothing strange about that. No, but these two attractive and intelligent girls—Miss Roberta Davis and Miss Jeanne Zellermayer—had not come here by train or auto. Except for occasional "lifts," they have hiked all the way. They have been ten months on the way, traveling over the Santa Fe, going from town to town, and city to city; at nightfall seeking out a hotel for rest and refreshment. They report fine weather during the entire trip, and not a single unpleasant incident.

Sitting in a restaurant in San Francisco, they overheard a couple discussing a recent visit in Carmel. The girls, having visited the art colony at Taos, New Mexico, had heard of Carmel, and they were soon in conversation with the couple—what about it and how to get here. That's how they came to Carmel. The couple was Ernest Cleve and wife.

Russell Brothers Lose Herd of Fine Stock

The splendid herd of 3300 pure-blooded cattle, developed for several years by Russell Brothers at El Adobe Rancho in Madera county, is a total loss. Such is the report of Harvey A. Russell, one of California's best-known cattlemen, whose home is in Carmel.

The hoof and mouth disease got in its deadly work on this magnificent herd two weeks ago, and already thousands of the animals have been destroyed. It is said that the disease was brought upon the ranch by a camping party.

Dr. Carol Aronovici, city planning expert, who will conduct regular courses in city planning in connection with the Golden Bough's university extension course, announces that should fifteen persons desire to take the course in the evening, he will arrange for same.

Morse States Stand of His Company on P. G.-Carmel Road

The position of the Del Monte Properties Company concerning the proposed direct road connecting Carmel and Pacific Grove is set forth by S. F. B. Morse, president of the company, as follows:

First: Under conditions as they now exist, with the necessary expenditures, the road between Carmel and Pacific Grove is not warranted. The saving in grade and the saving in distance is not sufficient to [illegible] expenditure advisable at this time.

Second: When the coast road is completed and travel from the south comes through Carmel, from any data that we now have at hand and viewing it from the light of present knowledge, we believe that the road to Pacific Grove from Carmel will be desirable and advisable.

Third: The interests of this company are so closely associated with the interests of the Peninsula at large that we do not propose to make any opposition to any development that the majority of those on the Peninsula may consider advisable. Therefore, if the petition of the citizens of Pacific Grove is carefully considered by the supervisors and if the supervisors decide that the road is advisable at this time, this company will make no opposition of any kind and will co-operate in every possible way, consistent with its interests. The company will merely ask that the road be so constructed as to do its properties the minimum of injury. We believe that the road as planned can be constructed with overhead crossings so as not to interfere with our toll road system and that additional crossings can be provided for so as not to interfere with such roads as may be constructed in the future.

Fourth: Conditions are anything but favorable in California at the present time. Adverse agricultural conditions generally, a dry year and the foot and mouth disease indicate that the prudent man or community will not make unnecessary expenditures.

In our opinion it is not the prudent thing to construct the road now, but in all probability it will be when the coast road is constructed.

Fifth: As regards the value of the right-of-way, if it is determined to build the road at this time or if it is determined to acquire the right-of-way at this time, I wish to definitely state that this company will abide by the value placed on it by the viewers, provided we are protected as regards overhead crossings, fencings and other similar matters. The value of the right-of-way is nominal and is not at all a point at issue.

Important Discovery by Former Carmelite

The Carmel friends and co-workers at the Carnegie Institution experimental laboratory are watching with interest the latest work of Professor Francis E. Lloyd of the biological department of McGill University at Montreal. The present experiments and startling results have to do with a method by which plants may be photographed by their own light.

If one may judge by the letters from Rome, Sumatra, India, articles in scientific journals at home and abroad, and the general interest aroused in the therapeutic value of light rays, Professor Lloyd has made another important contribution to science.

When Professor Lloyd was last in Carmel his experimental and research work had to do with rubber, and his studies along this line required a trip around the world. The results attained were remarkable, in several cases revolutionizing the methods of the industry.

Sixteen Carmel Boy Scouts, under the leadership of Assistant Scoutmaster Arthur Cyril, camped in San Jose canyon last Saturday night.

COURAGE AND CONVICTION

By THOMAS A. CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

THERE was an unmistakable air of depression about Fred when he came home from high school one day during his sophomore year.

"Why this gloom?" I asked sympathetically.

"It's this way," he explained. "Edward and I are on the debate; the subject is woman's suffrage; we have the affirmative, and I'll lose, for Edward refuses to speak against his convictions."

It is a brave man who has the courage of his convictions, who knows where he stands, who has figured out his beliefs and does not hesitate to speak out. There are a good many human "woolen aprons" in the world who turn either side out as may seem most expedient or most profitable; not so Edward. He had his convictions and he was not afraid to set his foot down even in the face of a growing public sentiment. He was against the modern woman constantly demanding her right and he would not argue otherwise.

There are many who seem to be possessed of feebly struggling convictions, but they lack the courage of expression. If you give voice to a bold or unpopular idea, if you tackle an unpleasant or a difficult situation, they privately pat you on the back or whisper their approval secretly in your ear.

"I'm for you," they say. "I approve what you are saying and doing, but please don't mention my name in connection with the matter. It might prove embarrassing or get me into a nasty situation."

Such a man came to me not long ago. There were immoral and illegal conditions existing in the community, he said, that should be corrected. Certain officials should be exposed, certain property holders warned. It was an unpleasant job which someone ought to do.

"Why not you?" I asked him.

"Oh, it would be too public," he said, "too unpleasant; it would embarrass me. You are used to doing unpleasant things; you don't mind; you are not so sensitive as I am."

I wondered.

It is easy to throw the responsibility for expression or for action upon someone else—the mayor or the minister, the administration or the editor, your roommate, or your wife—and to stand quietly at a safe distance to avoid the bricks that are thrown, but it is not always indicative of courage. It is comparatively easy to rail against existing conditions when one has the crowd with him, when one's friends commend and approve, but it takes real courage to oppose a generally accepted theory, to stand firmly for a principle that our most intimate friends are against. All reformers have been men of strong convictions.

I have no doubt that as time goes on Edward may modify if not entirely change his convictions. He may even already have done so, but it strengthens one's faith in humanity to know that there are still boys who have beliefs and who will not be tricked into speaking against them, who have ideals and the courage to stand for them.

Miss Gladys Young proprietor, has equipped the place with the latest appliances, furniture, plumbing, etc. A surprizingly large number of appointments were listed this week.

The inauguration of a new enterprise in Carmel is always an interesting event. The opening of Holiday Inn, in what was formerly the Doulton residence, on Camino Real, took place on Tuesday evening. A number of Carmelites and others partook of a splendid dinner, personally prepared by Anna Podien, the proprietor. Both before and after the dinner the guests inspected the rooms which will be rented to sojourners.

Esteemed Carmel Lady Passes Away

Just a week ago today, at the hour when the western sun was beginning to paint the graying heavens a vivid scarlet, there passed peacefully from this vale of tears the soul of Augusta Johnson, wife of DeWitt W. Johnson.

For eleven years they had made their home in Carmel; it was the home of Mr. Johnson's mother before they came over from Monterey; it was their home after the elder Mrs. Johnson passed away.

For a long time Mrs. Johnson had been ill, discouragingly ill. She did not complain. She was always cheerful, hopeful.

Now she has passed on, mercifully spared mental and physical pain at the end.

Taken Together.

It always struck me as a singular proof of good taste, good sense and liberal thinking in an old friend, who had Paine's "Rights of Man" and Burke's "Reflections on the French Revolution" bound up in one volume, and who said, that, both together, they made a very good book.—Hazlitt.

A glance at the above will show the nine-game contest for the Hooper cup tightening up. The scores last Sunday: Blues 14, Pirates 12, Giants 13, Reds 8.

Schweninger must have gone fishing—he wasn't in the line-up last Sunday.

But Eddie Burns made a come-back. He poled a homer way out into the big sticks.

Sam Morse made a circus catch over near third base. Everybody was surprised. So was he.

Anita Reiners caught a fly with three on base. Everybody out.

Helen Van Riper and Roselyn Morey each got several hits—scientific hits is what we mean.

Don Hale was injured so that he may not play tomorrow, but he won for the first time in several moons; so what's the odds?

Due to the quick work of Marshal Gus Englund, the man who broke into the Dorwart residence last Saturday is behind the bars at Oyer's bastile at Salinas.

Carmelites will go up in the air this summer. Alex Mulgardt and Harry Wyckoff, expert aviators, are going to bring a Curtis airplane down from San Francisco and ascensions will be made from the north end of the beach. Is this the first of the hurdy-gurdys?

Experts War on Foot and Mouth Disease

This is Dr. U. G. Houck of the United States Bureau of Animal Industry, (left) who has been placed by Secretary Wallace in complete command of the fight being effectively waged on the foot and mouth disease outbreak in California, and G. H. Hecke, director Department of Agriculture, State of California, who is assisting Dr. Houck in quickly and permanently stamping out the epidemic.

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—The full force of the United States government has been brought into play effectively against the foot and mouth disease in California. The disease has been confined to certain limited districts in the state and the work of stamping it out is proceeding rigorously under the direction of Dr. U. G. Houck, personal representative of Secretary Wallace, department of agriculture, who has complete control of the combined federal and state forces.

"Every method justified by our past experience and by scientific study is being used to prevent any possibility of spread of the disease and to wipe it out so thoroughly that there will be no chance of its recurrence," said Dr. Houck.

"There is no danger of spread of the disease through shipment of fruits, vegetables or dairy products from the great non-infected areas of California. We know of no instance where the disease has been carried by such shipments," Dr. Houck said.

Complete confidence in the men in the field was expressed by Dr. J. R. Mohler, chief of the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, in a message he has just sent to Dr. Houck and the local federal inspectors.

"We have in California," he said, "the best equipped force of inspectors that was ever assembled on a foot and mouth detail.

"Our methods are not experimental, but have been weighed in the balance of practical experience and have always produced the desired results."

Carmel to Have Fine Summer Music School

As if it were not enough that in the magnificent Theatre of the Golden Bough Carmel is to have a summer school of the arts of the theatre and a series of University of California extension courses, comes the announcement that we are to have in addition a six weeks' school of music for advanced students.

Under the directorship of David Alberto, our distinguished pianist, Carmel will have the honor of inaugurating what is undoubtedly the finest school of music in California. Four members of the faculty of six are natives of Californians, and is made up of David Alberto, director; Albert Elkus, composer and theorist; Allan Bier, pianist; Lawrence Strauss, instructor in voice culture, and two others to be announced.

The work of Alberto is well known to all Carmelites. Of Albert Elkus it may be said that his compositions are among the few American works in the repertoire of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Allan Bier, concert pianist, many times a visitor here, at present dean of the Jenkins school in Oakland, is a protege of De Pachmann. He has appeared in all of the large European centers. Lawrence Strauss, a splendid tenor, who is a pupil of Jean De Reszke, during the past season sang before New York audiences with great success.

The school, which will be held in the Theatre of the Golden Bough, will open on Monday, July 6, and close on Saturday, August 16.

It is probable that these artists will give a joint concert here.

SIX SURE WAYS TO START A FOREST FIRE

1. MATCHES—Be sure your match is burning briskly when you throw it away in the woods. Of course, a match thinks—what's its head for?
2. TOBACCO—Throw your lighted cigarette and cigar stumps and glowing pipe ashes into the biggest heap of brush and needles you can find along the road or trail. Only 40 per cent of our forest fires are set by smokers.
3. MAKING CAMP—Build a big campfire, and place it as close to young trees or clumps of brush as possible. To make sure your fire will spread, build it on top of the pine needles.
4. BREAKING CAMP—Don't bother about your fire when you leave camp; the rain is SURE to put it out.
5. BONFIRES—Build as big a bonfire as you can, especially if it is dry and windy. If you build it close to a tree or rotten log it will burn long after you have left.
6. FIGHTING FIRES—If you see a forest fire don't bother to put it out or report it to the nearest ranger. Why should you worry about the destruction of the National Forests that Uncle Sam has created for your use and enjoyment and that of your children?

BUT—IF YOU DO ANY OF THESE THINGS IN A CALIFORNIA FOREST, BE PREPARED TO PAY $500 AND GO TO JAIL.

Capite Florem

By THOMAS A. CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

WE were in Houston, Nancy and I, when I saw a beautiful picture in a shop window. I wanted to go in and buy it at once—the price was cheap beyond belief, it seemed to me, but Nancy urged delay. I yielded as all well-trained husbands do, but though I have been to Houston several times since and have visited shops elsewhere and peered in eagerly at windows, I have never found a picture quite so much to my liking; I should have bought the one which first satisfied me.

An old neighbor of mine had long looked forward to a visit to California and the Northwest. He delayed going, not because he could not afford the trip, but simply because he hoped that next year conditions would be more favorable, or he could get away more easily, or he would enjoy the vacation more; but he never took the journey. He is hopelessly ill now, so that he could easily have been his, and he is not now able to enjoy the retrospect of it.

We waste many precious hours in the contemplation of future recreations and enjoyments which may never come to us, when we might be getting happiness from the opportunities that are immediately around us. We delude ourselves with the hope that sometime in the future we shall have more time or be in better position for the enjoyment of life than today—when we are through college, when we have a good job, when the children are grown, when we have more money—forgetting that those people who have most money and most leisure are frequently the most discontented and unhappy.

We shall none of us be in a better position to enjoy ourselves than we are today; few of us, so long as we keep our strength and our faculties, at least, will ever have so much leisure for enjoyment or so great opportunity for happiness as right now.

I have always admired the courage of a dear friend of mine. She had for years wanted a handsome set of mahogany dining room furniture, but being in moderate circumstances did not feel that she could quite afford to throw away the substantial but ugly one she had. She was left a little legacy, and instead of putting it out at interest, as perhaps she should have done, she bought the beautiful mahogany which she had so desired. She died within a year, and I've always been glad that she had those months of happiness and satisfaction in her purchase.

It is the part of wisdom, of course, to look forward to the future and to prepare for it; most of us take too little thought for the morrow, but the flowers of happiness and enjoyment are about us every day; we do not need to wait for the distant future to pick them. If we refuse them today they may be like my picture—we may never have a chance at them again.

LIFE AND PROPERTY NEEDS PROTECTION

There is no crime wave in Carmel. Compared with other places of like population, commission of what the law terms felonies is extremely small. And it has always been so.

But occasionally there are crimes committed here, mostly in districts farthest removed from the center of town. Within the last year a number of burglaries have been reported, a woman was attacked on the street, there was a man murdered, automobiles have been stolen, traffic laws have been violated, and bootleggers are said to be operating here.

The foregoing is not written to arouse fear, nor is it directed at any local or other official. It is written to call attention to the fact that Carmel, a city of approximately two thousand people, is inadequately policed and protected. The one man on duty is a painstaking and alert officer. But it is not a one-man job. More police protection should be provided.

THE RADIO AND THE BOY

Home life has its ups and downs. Conditions in the time of our fathers favored it. There was less going on then, fewer amusements. People settled down evenings under the living room lamp, while the grown-ups read and the youngsters had a high old time over their games.

Of recent years entertainments and club life have developed. The kids have so many engagements that they need private secretaries to keep track of them. Some of their time is frittered away in futile entertainments. Yet they have very superior opportunities, and learn much from good community organizations.

Many of the boys have worried their mothers very badly up to a recent time by their dislike for the quiet life of their homes. It seemed terribly dull to them to settle down under the evening lamp, when they could go to some thrilling show, or train with the smart guys along the curbstones.

But now a new force is working to make home life more popular with these fellows. Many of them have become keenly interested in equipping radio sets, and in the things they hear over the ether waves.

The boy who last year was standing on the curbstone and spitting into the gutter, may now be spending his time trying to reach the distant cities of the country with his instruments. It is a new and thrilling pleasure. While last year you could hardly get him to stay at home, this year he may be restless until he gets back and sees what he can tune in for tonight.

It is a peculiarly useful interest for boys, since it stimulates their ingenuity and encourages a fellow to do things himself instead of watching some one else do things. The fellow who has acquired skill in handling these instruments ought to be one who would show initiative in his occupation when he gets to work.

Prizma Pictures Last Word in Film Beauty

A crowded and most enthusiastic house greeted Captain George E. Stone's Prizma films in Arts and Crafts community theater Wednesday night, and came away truly impressed with the beauty and serious purpose of his work. His explanations, simple, direct and modest, conveyed to those who had not read on the subject, something of the delicacy and difficulty of the technique involved in the taking of these colored films.

If one might offer a single suggestion it would be that captions be not thrown on the screen at the same moment when the speaker is talking, as it is almost impossible to hear and read different words at the same time.

The enthusiasm of the audience was equally stirred by malaria mosquitos and Denishawn dancers. The "Day with John Burroughs" was a friendly and human impression of a well loved man; the "Hagopian Rug-maker" captured a moment of pastoral beauty; "Magic Clay" and the "Sunshine Gatherers" were all interesting and appealing in their different ways, but the lovely "Bubble Dance," with its interesting demonstration of the value of synchronized music, and the amazing "Malaria and the Mosquito" seem to remain most vividly in the minds of the audience.

This last film, in black and white, one reel of which was shown, has been purchased for use of the International Health Board by the Rockefeller Foundation, and is an extraordinary indication of the value of the moving picture in education.

Apparently it is is work of this particular kind to which Captain Stone gives himself most ardently, and we know we speak for the Carmel public, already his warm friends, in wishing him the utmost success, realizing that in his success is implied a very practical benefit to mankind.

Concert Postponed

The Isona-Bruhl-Yates concert, to have been given at Arts and Crafts Theatre tonight, is postponed, owing to illness. The new date will be announced shortly.

Mah Jongg Party

Last Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gottfried entertained at their Dolores street house with a mah jongg party. Some of the guests stopped their gaming long enough to drive over to witness the rescue of the steamer Frank H. Buck, but they got there after it was all over. "Pung"—they came back again. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Van Riper, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Glassell, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Bechdolt, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Hale, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Dutton, Mrs. Dorothy Rockwell, Mrs. Marion Taylor, Mrs. Ruth Kuster, Misses Eliot and Charis Boke, Miss Ruth Lewis, Miss Katharine Cooke, Miss Rosslyn Morey, Ernest Schweninger, Roger Gottfried.

Alcohol of Acorns.

Up to the present time no industrial use has been made of acorns, but recent experiments show that alcohol can be made from them. Shelled acorns contain about 40 per cent of starch, which can be readily saccharified and then converted into alcohol.

All citizens desiring to vote at all the 1924 elections must register. The books are now open at the Pine Cone office.

Pictorial Photography at Hagemeyer Studio

Exhibitions at the Johan Hagemeyer studio have been resumed.

Due to Mr. Hagemeyer's illness these one-man showings were discontinued for a time.

Announcement is now made that, beginning tomorrow, pictorial photography by Louis A. Goetz will be on display every afternoon for a week.

The prints to be shown will be in various mediums—straight bromide, bromoil (using oil pigments) and bromoil transfer.

Goetz is internationally known in his field of work and deserves much credit for his accomplishments. He received awards at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Local Auto Dealer Still Selling 'Em

Mrs. W. E. Moore of Lincoln, Neb., who has been wintering in Carmel, dropped in on P. J. Denny, the Chevrolet dealer in Carmel, yesterday, and said she felt she ought to tell her experience with the Chevrolet car they purchased eight years ago, and exchanged for a new car just before leaving Nebraska last fall.

Mrs. Moore says that the car traveled over 80,000 miles during her ownership and cost them less than $50 for repairs, and was running fine when they sold it.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore are starting south Monday on their way to Lincoln.

Pacific Grove is to "Go it Alone"

My, my! This is awful. The balance of Monterey Peninsula had better retire gracefully. They've cut loose from us.

In the first place they're off Doc Roberts because of his attitude on the proposed Pacific Grove-Carmel direct road. They've nominated their mayor, W. J. Gould, for supervisor.

Monterey Peninsula Communities Inc. is taboo with them, because, it is alleged, they do not get a square deal in advertising. They are raising a fund of $7000 to do their own advertising.

They claim that the San Francisco newspaper correspondents do not treat Pacific Grove fairly, and have requested the Examiner to appoint a young man named by them as its correspondent.

We may even be obliged to do all our trading at home.

Volumes have been written about food.

Many of the world's most famous cooks have compiled and published collections of their favorite recipes. From time immemorial the pleasures of good living have been celebrated in song and story.

The Electric Range has added a new chapter to the literature of cooking. It may not be the last word on the subject, but it is the latest and best.

Electric Heat has brought the art of cooking almost within the bounds of an exact science. Constant temperature and perfect control insure uniform results.

You can heat water, too, with electricity—insuring an adequate supply for all purposes in the home
